Funding. This research received no specific grant from any funding agency in the public, commercial, or not-for-profit sectors.

Submission note. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money operates double anonymized review. This file carries all identifying information; the manuscript file contains none, including in its references, tables, figures and acknowledgements. The replication repository must be cited in masked form until acceptance.

Declaration of generative AI. A statement is included in the manuscript file, before the reference list, as the journal requires. The wording there is a default and can be revised by the author before submission.

Vitae (outstanding item). This journal requires a short (max. 100-word) author biography and a passport-style photograph, submitted as a separate item. Neither is included here: a biography should be written and supplied by the author, not fabricated on their behalf, and no photograph is available in this working environment. This must be added before submission.
